Viva Golf Vegas: Revere Golf Club offers a pair of courses to tee it up

Las Vegas is known more for just the gambling and shows, there is also golf. Plenty of golf. At places like the Revere Golf Club in the suburb of Henderson, golf is always a great option Revere Golf Club also has two courses to try with its Lexington and Concord layouts. For more on Revere Golf Club, see Page 2 of this section of Inside Golf Newspaper.

Sahalee will make a perfect host for KPMG Championship

There is plenty to like when it comes to the KPMG Women's PGA Championship returning to Sahalee Country Club on June 20-23. Not only is the Championship one of five Majors on the LPGA Tour, it also will showcase the Pacific Northwest and one of its top golf courses - Sahalee Country Club. Sahalee is no stranger to the national spotlight having hosted the 1998 PGA Championship, the 2010 U.S

Senior Open, and the 2016 KPMG Women's PGA Championship (won by Brooke Henderson, pictured above). Brooke scored a birdie on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff to beat Lydia Ko for her first Major Championship

Tickets are on sale now for the 2024 KPMG Women's PGA Championship and to celebrate Stacy Lewis throwing the first pitch at the Mariners Game on April 30, the KPMG Women's PGA Championship is offering a limited discount of 15% off a flex ticket, good for use on any one day of the Championship. Use promo code 2024WPGASTACY to receive your discount from April 29 through May 4. There are a variety of other ticket options available, starting as low as $40. Qualifying military and juniors (children under the age of 15) receive complimentary access to the Championship. For more information on the Championship and to purchase tickets, visit www.kpmgwomenspga.com/tickets.

Rules question of the month

Question: As you prepare to make a chip from off think it best to leave the flagstick in the hole to act as a backstop so you don't ask anyone to attend the flagstick. After you make the stroke a well meaning player in your group sees the ball approaching the hole and thinks the ball will strike the flagstick and so pulls the flagstick and sets it aside avoiding the collision. The ball rolls quite a bit past the hole. Disappointed because the backstop would have been helpful you say nothing since they were just being helpful. Good deeds go unpunished? See the answer on Page 2 of this section of Inside Golf Newspaper.

Circling Raven: Award winner turns 20

Circling Raven Golf Club, part of the Coeur d'Alene Tribe's Resort in Worley, Idaho, turns 20 years old in 2024. The course opened to rave reviews and since then has been near or at the top of every listing of the top golf courses in Idaho, the Pacific Northwest and the country. For more on Circling Raven and its 20th anniversary, please see inside this section of Inside Golf Newspaper.

Professional tours on the way back to the Pacific Northwest for the 2024 golf season

The professional golf tours are on the way back to the Pacific Northwest - and with a special event for the 2024 golf season.

One of the LPGA's major championships, the KMPG Women's PGA, is set to return to the Pacific Northwest June 20-23 at Sahalee Country Club in Samammish, Wash. The championship was last held at Sahalee in 2016 when the tournament was won by a then 18-year-old Brooke Henderson of Canada.

The Portland LPGA Classic has pions to Snoqualmie Ridge Golf Club Aug. 9-11 for its annual three-day run just east of Seattle. Stephen Ames won the tournament by a whopping six shots last year at Snoqualmie Ridge.

Rounding out the professional tours in the Northwest is the Albertsons Boise Open, which is set for Aug. 25-28 at Hillcrest Country Club.

On the Pacific Northwest club professional scene, championships are set for 2024. The Pacific Northwest Section PGA has its set of four major championships which attract the top professionals and amateurs from around the Northwest. The Washington Open Invitational will kick off the major season at Meridian Valley Country Club in Kent May 20-22. The Pelzer Oregon Open is next on the schedule and set for June 11-13 at Brasada Canyons in Central Oregon. The Rosauers Invitational will take place July 1-21 at Indian Canyon in Spokane while the Northwest Open will wrap up the schedule Aug. 19-21 at The Home Course

Sunland Golf Club: Open to the public and full of scenery

There is plenty to like about Sunland Golf Club in Sequim, Wash. Not only is the course located in the "Rain Shadow" of the Olympic Peninsula, it is also a course that is open to the public after being a private course. There are challenging holes, views of nearby mountains and dry condition considering the rainfall on the Olympic Peninsula is less than anywhere else in the Northwest. For more, please see inside this section of Inside Golf Newspaper.

When it comes to golfing in Las Vegas, the Revere Golf Club can double your pleasure

When it comes to golf and Las Vegas, there are a myriad of choices. You can head north or south or east or west. And you will find a golf course with plenty to like. But when it comes to a place like the Revere Golf Club in suburban Henderson, there seems to be a little of something for every golfer.

Challenging golf course? Check. In fact, there are two challenging golf courses. Great views? Check. You can see the Vegas Strip from many of the holes on both courses. A practice area that will keep you busy for hours? Check. And it's called the "Battlefield" that offers all-grass areas for hitting.

You should be getting the idea that is a place for golfers to visit when they head to Vegas.

The Revere Golf Club offers a pair of golf courses called Lexington and Concord. If you haven't got the theme yet, let me spell it out for you. Revere? Concord? Lexington? Battlefield practice area? Sounds a little like something right out of the history books, doesn't it?

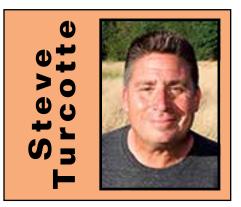

The club's two courses and the name itself are taken from the famous ride by Paul Revere, which adds a little bit of historical touch. Remember Revere? He of the "The British are coming, the British are coming," line in history. It helped the city of Boston fortify itself against the attack planned by the British soldiers.

The two courses are different. The Lexington course features a 7,143-yard layout that rolls through the desert canyons and the valleys of the foothill of Las Vegas. And the views of the city below and the mountains sometimes take your attention away from your next golf shot.

The Concord Course plays to 7,034 yards and also offers those terrific views but with a little different layout than Lexington Course with its 360-degree views and plenty of mounded fairways and some large greens.

Even the holes on both courses are named - and of course with historical names. There is Bunker Hill, Midnight Ride, North Church and Lantern's Light.

There is plenty that grabs your attention at the Revere Golf Club but some of the par-5 holes are dramatic. The 11th hole on the Lexington Course is a beast measuring 625 yards from the tips and all uphill after the drive to a multi-tiered green. Hello double bogey on my scorecard. The 18th hole on the Concord Course is another treat measuring 551 from the tips and all downhill. The trouble is there is forced carry right in front of the green. I think my ball is still in there somewhere.

There is a reason the Revere Golf Club has earned plenty of honors through the years including both being hit with 4 1/2 stars by Golf Digest and both being named among the top new courses in the country when they opened for play. And most recently named the Las Vegas Review Journal's Best of Las Vegas 2020-23

There is always plenty to do when you travel to Las Vegas. But I know one thing after this visit. The Revere Golf Club will always be at the top of the list for a round of golf.

Rules Answer

Answer: When players decide to leave a flagstick in the hole they must make that decision prior to making the stroke. When a player has left the flagstick in the hole and not authorized anyone (asked) to attend it, another player must not deliberately move or remove the flagstick to affect where the player's ball in motion might come to rest. Since this good Samaritan removed the flagstick to prevent the ball from striking the flagstick they were in breach of Rule 13.2a (4) for which the penalty is 2 strokes the General Penalty.

Winners of NW Championships get invite to USGA events; Tickets available for KPMG Women's PGA Championship

For the amateur player, the U.S. Amateur and U.S. Women's Amateur are considered to be the most difficult of the USGA's national championships to get in to. And qualifying for the U.S. Junior Amateur and U.S. Girls' Junior is no easy task either.

There are so many good young players, and so few spots available in the championships proper. And the qualifying process often feels like a one-in-a-million chance, with typically a full field of local golfers playing one or two rounds in a day, all competing for just one, two or maybe three available spots.

Well, starting this year, there is good news for those on their quest.

The champions of several of the Northwest's championships will now be exempted into the U.S. Amateur, U.S. Women's Amateur, U.S. Junior Amateur or U.S. Girls' Junior.

Along with having their name engraved on a trophy as a state or regional amateur champion, each champion will now earn an exemption into their respective USGA national championship.

The respective championships conducted by the region's Associations are now deemed an official USGA Exemption Event – win it, and you're in it.

Tickets available for KPMG Championship

One of the five Major Championships on the LPGA Tour is returning to the Pacific Northwest as Sahalee Country Club will host the 2024 KPMG Women's PGA Championship on June 20-23. This marks the second time the Championship will be held at Sahalee Country Club having previously hosted the Championship in 2016 where a then-18-year old Brooke Henderson beat Lydia Ko in a playoff for her first Major victory in winning the KPMG Women's PGA Championship.

There are a variety of ways to attend the 2024 KPMG Women's PGA Championship.

Daily ground tickets for Thursday, June 20th through Sunday, June 23rd start as low as $40, with flex tickets good for any one (1) day of the Championship priced at $50. Qualifying military and juniors (15 and under) receive complimentary access to the Championship.

For more information on the tournament, and to purchase tickets, visit www.kpmgwomenspga.com.

First Tee Chambers Bay Solstice

On June 23, 2024, First Tee of Greater Seattle will conduct its 5th Annual Chambers Bay Solstice, a fund-raiser for the First Tee chapter. Play up to 72 holes from dawn to dusk at Chambers Bay. For more information about this fundraising event see www.chambersbaysolstice.com or visit the first tee for more information.

Youth on Course a boon for juniors

Ever since it started, the Youth on Course program has been a boon for kids looking to get into the game of golf. With the price of golf sometimes fairly high, the Youth on Course program has been a way for kids to play a round of golf for $5 - at a variety of golf courses around the country. The program is quite popular in the Pacific Northwest as many courses offer the $5 program for youths looking to play a round of golf. Youth on Course has taken away the barriers of cost for kids to play. Over 100,000 kids, age 6-18, have signed up for the program and have access to over 1,400 golf courses around the country for $5 or less. The program has subsidized over 1,000,000 rounds of golf for kids and has saved families $8 million in greens fees. Also, Youth on Course is offering scholarships. For more the www.youthoncourse. org or WAgolf.org/YOC.

TGA hands off to Meadow Park

Oregon junior golfer wins Drive, Chip and Putt

Connor Holden of Canby, Ore. won the Finals of the Drive, Chip and Putt for the Boys 14-15 age division. The Finals were held at Sunday, Aug. 7, at Augusta National Golf Club, prior to the start of this week's Masters Tournament.

To get to the Finals at Augusta National, Holden, who won four Oregon Junior Golf titles last summer, won the Boys 14-15 division qualifier held at Chambers Bay in University Place, Wash.

The other Northwest juniors to make it to the Finals were Niuniu Zhao of Woodinville, Wash. and Max Soterakopoulos of Everett, Wash.

Conducted in partnership with the USGA, the Masters Tournament and the PGA of America, Drive, Chip and Putt is a free, nationwide youth golf development program open to boys and girls, ages 7-15, in four age divisions. The three-pronged competition tests the skills essential to playing the game – accuracy in driving, chipping and putting.

Connor Holden of Canby, Ore.

Founded in 1931, the TGA has a rich history of promoting and supporting amateur golf, including the development of competitive golfers of all ages and fostering a love for the game in Tacoma and surrounding communities.

Meadow Park, which opened in 1915, is dedicated to preserving that history, in part through a commitment to host and enhance the long-standing Tacoma City Golf Championships. This series of four legacy events includes the Tacoma City Amateur Championship, Tacoma City Senior Amateur Championship, Tacoma City Junior Championship and Tacoma City Best-Ball Championship.

Chris Goodman, who manages Meadow Park, said the long-term goal for the series is reviving its reputation as premier-level events that attract players from across Washington.

Securing that vision means a reimagining of its future and renewed dedication to engaging with younger and more diverse golfers to ensure its continued success. Under Meadow Park's stewardship the TGA will partner with other regional golf associations, local golf courses and local schools to introduce new golfers into these events and cultivate the next generation of golfers.

Upcoming Tournaments for the 2024 golf season include:

TGA Senior Amateur – July 13-14; Tacoma City Amateur – July 26-28; Tacoma Junior City Amateur – July 29-30; Tacoma Best-Ball – Sept. 14

HIGHLANDS GOLF COURSE

Half the Time, Twice the Fun

1400 N Highlands Pkwy Tacoma WA 98406 (253) 759-3622

Destination: Sunland on the Olympic Peninsula offers up public golf with the scenery

Sunland Golf Club is one of the most unknown gems in the state. For most of its existence it has been a private club, but a few years ago it announced it was open to public play and wants to remind the golfing community that they are welcome to come and enjoy this special course.

Sunland Golf Club is located in Sequim (pronounced "skwim") and is the premier golf and social club on the Olympic Peninsula. For those who are unfamiliar with Sequim, it is a small city located on the Olympic Peninsula along the Straight of Juan de' Fuca, in the shadow of the Olympic Mountains, which give the city a micro climate with an annual average rainfall of 16.2 inches – less than half that of Seattle/ Tacoma, (34"-38"), making Sunland one of the driest courses in Western Washington.

All 18 holes at Sunland were designed by one of the most prolific and revered golf course architects of the Pacific Northwest, Arthur Vernon Macan. He has designed several top golf courses in the area, including Broadmoor, Inglewood, Overlake, Manito, and Waverly, just to name a few. Unfortunately, he did not get to see his vision become a reality due to a fatal heart attack that occurred while on Sunland property in 1964. The first nine opened in 1971 and the second nine in 1976.

The near level terrain at Sunland makes it walker friendly. There are five sets of tees with the longest stretching to 6,295 and the forward tees set to 4,695. There is a water hazard on holes #9, #14 and #15 and 6 dogleg holes where positioning off the tee is critical to get an open look at the green. The signature hole is probably the downhill par 3 #15. They also have an all-grass driving range.

The course's fairways are lined by tall mature trees that can easily come into play. The round starts right

There are several generous fairways on the course, however, there are some holes that squeeze down the landing areas making it a long day for inaccurate drivers of the ball. Their website aptly describes the course as "sporty and challenging."

Sunland Golf Club is surrounded by a mostly, retirement community with golf as the center piece. Golfers from across America have found the mild maritime climate of Sequim, with it's year-round golf, to be the perfect place to settle down.

The course is managed by Columbia Hospitality. All members can enjoy the benefits of Columbia Hospitality Golf. With everything from discounts at area hotels, spas, and restaurants to discounted green fees at some of the best golf courses in the Pacific Northwest. # Idaho's award-winning Circling Raven celebrates its 20th anniversary in 2024

As you pull into the parking lot at the Circling Raven Golf Club in Worley, Idaho you can see it is something special. With its vast landscape and rolling terrain, you can see from the car that this is a course like no other.

This is a course owned and operated by the Coeur d'Alene Tribe and a course that is celebrating its 20th anniversary in 2024. Since opening for play, this is a course which has won local, regional and national awards. And for good reason. Course designer Gene Bates has even admitted this is his favorite course he has designed in his years of golf architecture.

"The diversity of the land was very unusual and favorable for designing a golf course," said Bates. "We had wetlands, we had Palouse and we had elevation. All we needed to do was connect the dots."

And those dots were definitely connected. This is a course which sprawls over 620 acres of rolling terrain with views far and wide and a chance to see a variety of wildlife (and don't forget the eagles George and Gracie on the 17th hole), including some moose who roam the property. When Circling Raven opened for play in 2005, it was quickly named as one of the best new courses in the country. Since then, the awards have been coming in every year, including being ranked as the top course in Idaho and one of the top casino and resort courses in the country.

The Coeur d'Alene Tribe started its resort with a small building in a parking lot. Since then, the resort has taken on a life of its own with a 300-room hotel, conference center, event center, multiple restaurants, a 60,000 square foot gaming floor and more. And 20 years ago, along came the golf course, which really put the resort in a class by itself.

What gets your attention from the first tee box is the vastness of the area. On the back nine, you don't even see another hole as you wind through the hills and the trees and get a chance to take advantage of the elevation changes along the way. Some big events have been held through the years at Circling Raven, including the Road to the LPGA Tour, which made a stop for three years from 2021-2023 with one of its regular tournaments on the yearly schedule.

At a recent 20th anniversary celebration, some of the comments from tribal members and media members spoke volumes about the course.

"Once you putt out on 18, you don't want the round to end - the course is that good," said one.

"It is like you and Mother Nature are playing a round of golf together," said another.

You get the idea. Circling Raven is a place where golf and nature come together. From the opening tee shot to the last putt on the 18th green, you see one of the top courses around and more.

For more information on Circling Raven and the resort see the website www.cdacasino.com.

Award-winning Circling Raven Golf Club in Worley, Idaho offers plenty of scenery - and some moose too.

Portland Golf Club: Rich history as the club turns 110 years old in 2024

By Greg Loper, Special to Inside Golf

Since its establishment in 1914, Portland Golf Club has hung its hat on tradition, excellence, and community, shaping the landscape of golf in the Pacific Northwest. Situated in the Raleigh Hills neighborhood of Portland, Portland Golf Club boasts a rich history dating back over a century. The club has evolved from humble beginnings into one of the premier private clubs in the Pacific Northwest, characterized by its lush fairways and picturesque surroundings.

The origins of Portland Golf Club trace back to a group of golf enthusiasts who sought to create a space where they could indulge their passion for the sport. Led by visionary individuals such as Edgar P. Warren and John G. Teal, the club was officially founded in 1914 with a modest nine-hole course. Over the years, the club steadily expanded its facilities and improved its course, attracting a growing membership eager to partake in the joys of golfing amidst Oregon's natural beauty.

In the early decades of its existence, Portland Golf Club underwent several transformations to meet the evolving needs and preferences of its members. In 1922, the renowned golf course architect A.V. Macan was enlisted to redesign the layout, resulting in a more challenging and aesthetically pleasing course that garnered acclaim from players of all skill levels. Macan's design principles emphasized the integration of natural elements and strategic shot-making.

Portland Golf Club - 1947 Ryder Cup. Throughout its history, the club has hosted numerous prestigious tournaments and events that have left an indelible mark on the world of golf. In 1946, Portland Golf Club had the honor of hosting the PGA Championship (won by Ben Hogan, pictured above), marking a significant milestone in its journey to prominence within the golfing community. Subsequent years saw the club continue to attract top-tier competitions including the 1947 Ryder Cup, the first competition between the USA and Great Britain since WWII.

A litany of winners in tournaments on the course included Sam Snead, Ben Hogan, Cary Middlecoff, Billy Casper, Jack Nicklaus, Kathy Whitworth, Donna Caponi Young, and Nancy Lopez. The last major PGA Tour event held at the course, before the PGA required courses to have longer tracks to host PGA Tour events, happened in 1965.

Portland Golf Club has played a vital role in fostering a sense of camaraderie and community among its members. The club's facilities, which include a club-house, pro shop, and practice areas, serve as gathering points where individuals from diverse backgrounds come together to share their love for the game. Whether enjoying a round of golf or participating in social events and tournaments, members of Portland Golf Club have forged lasting friendships and created cherished memories amidst the tranquil surroundings of the course.

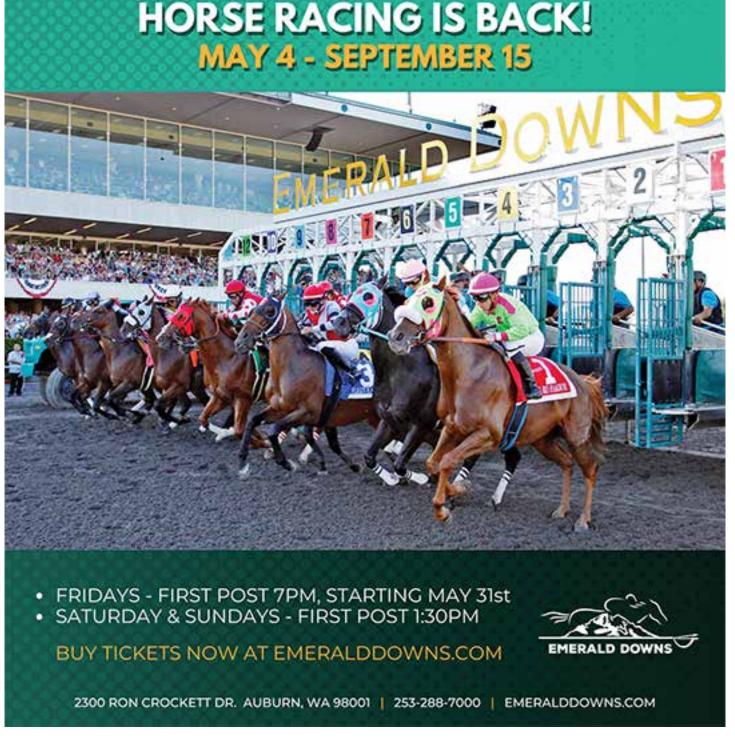

As the years have passed, Portland Golf Club has remained committed to preserving its storied heritage while embracing innovation and progress. Ongoing efforts to maintain and enhance the course ensure that it continues to provide a world-class golfing experience for generations to come. Additionally, the club's dedication to environmental stewardship underscores its commitment to sustainability and the preservation of Oregon's natural splendor.

Portland Golf Club's storied history and significance extend beyond its immaculate fairways and prestigious tournaments. In recognition of its cultural and architectural importance, the Portland Golf Clubhouse and Golf Course was added to the National Register of Historic Places in 2023. This honor cemented its status as a cherished landmark in the Pacific Northwest and underscores the club's enduring legacy and commitment to preserving its heritage for generations to come. As it looks towards the future, the club stands poised to build upon its legacy and continue enriching the lives of golf enthusiasts for years to come.

The Portland Golf Club turns 110 years old in 2024 and has been the host for some major golf championships.

Emerald Downs kicks off its 2024 horse racing season this month

If it's the month of May, it must mean it's time for the horses to start running at Emerald Downs racetrack in Auburn, Wash.

Opening Day at Emerald Downs is set for May 4, the same day as the annual running of the Kentucky Derby. The season will run through September with racing on Friday's, Saturday's and Sunday's. Check the Emerald Downs calendar at www.emeralddowns. com for the dates of live racing.

There will be plenty of big events at the track in 2024, highlighted by the annual Fireworks Spectacular July 3. Other events for the season include:

Rules of the Game: There is more than meets the eye when you decide head to the golf 'course' to tee it up

As we head into springtime the weather is getting better in the Pacific Northwest. Hopefully that means more golf for you! As you head to the course ... wait ... what does course actually mean? The dictionary definition doesn't even mention golf in association with the word course.

Webster's says a course is a route or direction, or an ordered process. I guess you could say that golf on a course is an ordered process on a specific route. But let's look at some golf lingo and the USGA definition of course: the entire area of play within the edge of any boundaries set up by the Committee. (The Committee is essentially the person or group in charge of the competition on the course. That could be your head pro, a tournament committee, your local golf association, or even a USGA committee).

Any area inside the boundaries is part of the course, and the course is made up of five defined areas. If you know the five areas, you can impress your golfing buddies. But honestly even more important, knowing the different areas of the course can help you understand the rules that apply specifically to each area.

For this month's article, I'll share the information about the areas of the course. In the following months I'll talk about each specific area and some rules that apply to those areas. First, there are four specific areas of the golf course: 1) The Teeing Area the player must use in starting the hole they are playing, 2) The Putting Green of the hole the player is playing, 3) All penalty areas on the course, and 4) All bunkers on the course

The rest of the golf course within the boundaries that are NOT part of a specific area is known as the General Area. Notice that 1 and 2 both specifically mention THE Teeing Area and THE Putting Green, while 3 and 4 refer to ALL penalty areas and bunkers on the course. To clarify, rules that apply to the Teeing Area mean the Teeing Area that you must use in starting the hole you are playing.

If you are playing the blue tees on hole #7, that is what the rules would consider the Teeing Area. During the play of hole #7, all other Teeing Areas on the golf course, including any other tee on hole #7, would be considered part of the General Area. The same is true of Putting Greens! The Putting Green rules apply only to the Putting Green of the hole the player is playing. All other putting greens on the course are a wrong green (which we will discuss later) and are a part of the General Area! If you are playing hole #7, the greens of ALL the other holes are part of the General Area!

All the penalty areas on the course—either red or yellow are specific areas of the course. And all bunkers on the course are specific areas of the course. The rules define a bunker as a specially prepared area of sand, which is often a hollow from which turf or soil was removed. Notice the rules use the term bunker—and even though sand trap is a very commonly used term to describe a spot on the course filled with sand that traps your golf ball—the rules-correct term is bunker!

Enjoy the springtime weather and share your new found golf lingo! Since we've previously covered the Teeing Area in the November, '23 edition of Inside Golf, next month we will tackle Putting Green rules.

Knowing the defferent areas of a golf course and its boundaries is essential to knowing all of the rules in play.

Question: At a tournament your well struck tee shot appears to have come to rest among the trees along the right side of the fairway. This fairway parallels another hole going the opposite way. As you head off in search you notice players in the tree line apparently searching for a ball. After a search for your ball, which you do not find, and your 3 minute search time expires you understandably assume that someone in that other group must have hit your ball by mistake. So you run over and ask them if they may have hit your ball in error but of course they all deny they did. Fortunately, there is a Rules official close at hand. If you were that official how would you answer their question?

Answer: You would answer it delicately. Under the Rules of Golf there are several circumstances where the concept of "known or virtually certain" is used to aid in determining questions of fact. Situations such as "is the ball in a penalty area, is my ball lost in ground under repair", or as is in this case "was my ball moved by an outside influence"? Known or virtually certain as applied in the Rules of Golf is a very high bar to achieve. You could say about 95% likely your assumption is correct. With that high of a requirement it undermines player's normal trend of thinking, "what's in my score's best interest or what's fair". Even though there is some possibility someone did play your ball the evidence is not conclusive. So as described above the player's ball is lost and they would have to proceed under Rule 18.2 and return to the teeing area and play under stroke and distance. It makes the case in part for putting a distinctive marking on your golf ball.

The Lesson Tee: As the 2024 golf season gets going it's never too late to find a way to work on the game

Some Secret Sauce in golf.

We are heading into the 2024 golf season. In fact, the season is here. It's time to get everything going in the right direction.

We all need coaching, sharpening, input, accountability and continual growth in golf and life. I hope you all are seeking that out and getting that regularly. As we get into the season, it's time to get that game even sharper.

I would like to address a few helpful insights to your golf game this month.

1. Aim: Most everyone tries to aim their club face where they want the ball to go, but most are unaware of aiming the body. Most aim their body right of their target.

They then must make a undesired move to hit the golf ball back to their target. I would like my athletes to aim the feet left of the target or end

Left is much more effective than aiming to the right! You should feel like your feet aim at the short stop when wanting to hit the shot to second

You can feel like your shoulders are at second base, but not hips and feet. My experience is when someone feels this aim everything is quite

- 2. Stronger Grip: I've said it many time in many articles. Stronger is better than weaker for 85% of golfers. See three knuckles in the left hand and put the club in your fingers. Then match the right hand with the left. (Photo 1).
- 3. Get Position 3: (Photo 2) Create depth to your backswing by turning your hips and shoulders. Without hip turn it is difficult to create enough depth to shallow the shaft properly on the downswing. Create 20 degrees of depth at position 3 in the backswing.

Another image is when you turn your hips and
